... from Outside to us

Fishers

We are hunters and gatherers not seen by those who are farmers inherently.

When one is not providing for loved ones in both cultures; how does one feel as a human being.

How does one learn without a role model to teach what how one can provide Trying to be another is stressful with no one to hear ^{from} what you want to provide.

We hunters learn that what we get have a spirit because it has life. With gratitude, we acknowledge that spirit for sustaining us - survival Provide us with food, clothing, tools, ^{shelter} sinew for clothing, even transportation; umiak.

Farmers may had that but I don't really understand that - - just like non-native don't really understand us let alone themselves - individually.

Go Through life armed w/ the Strength of Knowing your weaknesses.
